Where: Virtual through Zoom

What: (Course Outline): ORWARN has put together a webinar focused on safety and security of your water and wastewater utility. The knowledge shared by our speakers will prepare your staff and utility for physical and cyber security threats and they will discuss the best way we can prepare to protect our utility.

Topics will include:

- I love you guys, standard response protocol for municipal – situational awareness and life safety at your utility.
- Cybersecurity Threats for Utility Workers.
- Active Assailant Response Training for Multi-functional workforce.

Instructors:

- Jeremiah Hunt (ORWARN Chair) – EWEB, Water Construction & Distribution Supervisor
- Kevin Sutherland – Tualatin Valley Water District (TVWD), Emergency Program Coordinator
- Chris Callahan – Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA), Chief of Cybersecurity
- Ken Baldwin – Eugene Water and Electric Board (EWEB), Physical Security Supervisor

CEU's: 0.3 CEU's Water/Wastewater – Oregon (Pending)

Cost: $60 AWWA member / $120 non-member

Registration: Constant Contact

Tracking of Attendees: Roster based on Zoom participants. Also, we will use polling within presentations, responses will verify attendance.

Training Goal: To provide safety and security for small to large water and wastewater utilities on how to keep your utility prepared and ready for the challenges it may face, including cyber security, physical security and preparation for the potential of future security events and keeping your water and wastewater utility resilient against sabotage or terrorism.
