

Aaron Yates

Aaron Yates is a Technical Sales Rep with Orenco Systems®, Inc., a wastewater equipment manufacturing firm based in Sutherlin, Oregon. In this role, he works with customers to familiarize them with Orenco's products, assists customers with determining proper equipment selection, and handles quote requests and purchase orders. He also assists with troubleshooting residential wastewater systems. Since joining the company in 2003, he has become a frequent trainer and presenter on Orenco products and programs. Before his career at Orenco, Aaron spent more than 10 years flying helicopters for the U.S. Navy.

Aaron earned his Bachelor of Science degree in nuclear engineering from Oregon State University in 1992. Even when he's not working, he is still on the fly, trying to keep up with his four children.